IN THE DEPARTMENTS.

Matters of Interest to the Employes of Uncle Sam. Captain James H. Merryman, one of the best known officers of the Revenue Marine Service, died last week. He was a native of Maryland, but was ap-pointed from Illinois. For a considerable time past he has been incapaci-tated for the performance of active duty, and at the time of his death, which resulted from a cancerous affec-tion, he was at New York under a special assignment. Mr. J. M. Welty of Illinois was promoted last week from $1,000 to $1,800 in the Pension Office. This gentleman was an assistant chief of division under the last Administration and was On the appointment of Commissioner Tanner he was reinstated. He is regarded as a very competent

James W. Spencer of Iowa has been appointed to a $1,600 position in the Geological Survey. Mr. S. H. Bundy of Illinois has resigned his $1,600 clerkship in the Interior Department. Mr. Warner Wilhite, the efficient chief of the Eastern Division, one of the largest and most important in the Pen-sion Bureau, has returned from a visit to his home in Indiana. Although this gentleman was never in the Govern-ment service until the incoming of the present Administration, he has mas-tered all the duties pertaining to his division, of which he is the head in fact as well as in name. His popularity with his clerks and the high opinion entertained of his division by the su-perior officers of the bureau is evidence of his standing as a man and official.

In the Interior Department the following promotions have been announced: Mrs. L. H. Miller of Michigan, Mrs. Tory Olesen of Minnesota and J. M. Harriet of Illinois, from $1,000 to $1,200 per annum.

Mr. Henry B. Hitz of the District of Columbia was appointed on Thursday to a $900 clerkship in the Geological Country visitors frequently mistake the clerks of Senators for the members of the American House of Lords. The error is pardonable when one considers the distinguished air of the average clerk as contrasted with the happy-go lucky style of the ordinary Senator Some of the Senate clerks are free from assumed airs, but they are in a minority. The special field for display of pomposity is found in the Departments, which are daily visited by the representatives of the Senators, and where the Government clerks have lots of quiet fun at the expense of the little gentlemen, upon whose shoulders rest such weighty responsibilities as are usually devolved upon private secretaries of men whose contains but little more than appeals for office from needy constituents

The Commissioner of Pensions has promoted William H. Greer of Pennsylvania, William H. Summers of Ohio and William L. Wright of the District of Columbia from $1,200 to $1,400 per Mrs. Ella Atkins of Ohio has received an appointment to a $900 clerkship in the Patent Office. Mr. C. L. Poindexter of Illinois, clerk of the $1,400 class in the Interior Department, has resigned.

A clerk in the Postoffice Department, commenting upon a statement in this column in our last issue, to the effect that boarding house keepers here will increase their rates if the proposed tax is levied by the District Commissioners, says he thinks some sort of organiza-tion is required among boarders as a protection against Washington landadles. In no other city are there so many boarding-houses as here, and nowhere are landladies so independent and exacting. Women suffer more than men at the hands of these female tyrants, and woe to the poor copyist or typewriter upon whose head the frown of the landlady falls. A male boarder may occasionally be caught kissing the cook, merely as a matter of diplomacy and the mistress of the house will con tent herself by scolding the servant and speaking of her boarder as "a scamp." out if she detects any little flirtation between her guests there's a big row at once, unless the male is a member of Congress, in which case the landlady quietly says, "Members are so ecquietly says, "Members are so ec-centric." If there is any one thing that makes the Washington boarder more tired than another, it is the familiar annonncement of the landlady that she "has seen better days." Most of them never lived so well as they do now, and yet they talk of "better days." A lady clerk who has a room in one house and takes her meals in another was sick a few days ago, and when a servant brought her breakfast it was not allowed to be sent to her room, as "vit-tles makes the curtings smell." Quite a number of clerks in the sev eral Departments have very sensibly concluded that they will no longer pay excessive rents for homes and have in vested in cottages along the lines of railways running from this city. The entire route between Washington and Rockville, the thriving Maryland town sixteen miles north of our city, is dotted with the snug homes of clerks and other employes of Uncle Sam. There much that is unhealthy in the specu lative movements in suburban real estate, and the chances are that there will sooner or later be mourning among those who expect to buy land by the acre and sell it by the foot at fancy prices. But there is no risk where property is actually purchased and occupied as homes anywhere within a radius of twenty miles. So popular this movement becoming that the railroads will, during the coming summer, run special Department trains every morning and afternoon.

R. P. Minshall of Iowa was oted on Wednesday from $1,400 to $1,600 in the Interior Department.

The action of the President, as promulgated last week by the Secretary of War, in remitting the unexecuted portion of the sentence of Dell P. White, late private Troop F, Eighth Cavalry, meets general approval, especially among the clerks in the various bureaus of the War Department, nearly all of whom are old soldiers. It is to be hoped that it is, but that a searching investigation will be ordered, and if it is found that the facts justify it that the members of the court martial which tried White re ceive sammary punishment and dis-missal from the army. White, who was a private in the Eighth Cavalry was stationed at Fort Yates, South Da to take a piece of canvas to the house of Second Lientenant M. F. Steele of the same regiment. He complied with the order, although not detailed that day for "fatigue" duty. Upon reaching the house he was ordered to take the canvas into the back yard and did so As he was leaving the premises Lieu tenant Steele called him back and di rected him to place the canvas upon a White said: "Lieutenant, I ob ject to doing this work, which is that of coal or split wood, as has for years been required of calisted men, I dectine to do this because it is servant's work." The Lieutenant flew into a passion, struck him and ordered his confinement in the guard house. Next morning he was given permission to call on the post commander, Colonel E. F. Townsend, and asked if he could not prefer charges against the licutenant for assaulting him. The colonel told him he could submit a complaint if he saw fit and that it would be forwarded to the proper authorities. He was ordered back to authorities. He was ordered back to the guard-house and remained in con-finement until December 6, when he was tried by a court martial, of which Lieutenant Steele was judge-advocate, on two charges, viz., conduct preju-dicial to good order and military disci-pline, and disobedience of orders. He was found guilty and sentenced to dis-honorable discharge, with forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and confinement in the military prison at Fort Snelling for one year. To the credit of President Harrison, be it said, he did all that was in his power to correct the wrong when he ordered the remission of the unexecuted portion of the sentence. I fell into the arms of Mrs. Samuel Her-sey, saving, 'He has killed me.' Mr. Hersey, who was only a short diatance away, took after Frankland and sucthe order of the Secretary of War pro-mulgating the President's decision, occurs this passage: "No action appears to have been taken against Lieutenant Steele, whose breach of discipline was of an aggravated nature. It is also grossly improper that Lieutenant Steele should have been detailed as judge-ad-vocate of the court." Not long ago he President had occasion to review the findings of a court-martial, which tried Major Lydecker of the Engineer Corps for misconduct in his manage-ment of the Washington Aquaduct, and young lady was resting comfortably.

It seems that Frankland had been the rebuke administered to the court was so severe that most men of fine feeling would have resigned positions. Doubtless if it been in his power the President would have removed every member of that court. This last case should be looked into by the Military Committees of Congress with the view of amending existing law so as to bring officers who disgrace the service within reach of deserved punishment. While it is true that men who enlist in the regular army are not, as a rule, of a refined or even decent type, they are not slaves and are entitled to better treatment than they receive at the hands of those who are placed over them by social or po-litical influence rather than merit. Harry G; Frankland Tries to Kill Miss Lillian Moore, On Sunday morning about 11 o'clock as the people of Rhode Island avenue were proceeding from their homes to church five pistol shots, in rapid succession, rang out upon the crisp, cool air, between Ninth and Tenth streets. In a very short time information had passed along the avenue that a woman had been deliberately shot down by a man, and there was naturally considerable commotion over the affair

The circumstances are that Harry G. Frankland, while walking along the Avenue, met Miss Lillian Moore. A few very hastily spoken words were ex-changed between the two, whereupon Frankland drew a revolver from his pocket and began firing. The first shot struck Miss Moore upon the forehead near the left temple, the second pene-trated the left wrist and the third passe? Two other shots were fired by Frank-land, but they missed his victim.

Miss Moore ran across the street and ceeded in bringing him down with a brick. He was afterward placed in the custody of Officer Asher and taken to the Second Precinct station. Miss Moore was removed to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Harvey Stevens, 931 Rhode Island avenue, Drs. Poole and Janney summoned. of George III., he is second cousin once removed to Queen Victoria, and shares all her ancestry save that through Queen Charlotte and the Duchess of Kent. He has as much of the blood of Plantagenet, Tudor and Stewart in his reins as the Queen has in hers, and in respect of the last he is excelled by his children, who, through their mother, are descended from Charles I., through his daughter Henrietta, Duchess of Orleans, while our reigning house can claim descent only through a daughter of James I.
